TURK ARMY TRAPPED

BRITISH BAG 25,000 MEN AND 260 GUNS IN PALESTINE

THE BRITISH IN NAZARETH

Coup Means Virtual Annihilation of Ottoman Forces in That Region. British Losses Very Light.

London, Sept. 23.—Twenty-five thousand Turks and two hundred and sixty guns were captured by the British in Palestine it is offically announced by the war offce this afternoon. The 7th and 8th Turkish armies were wiped out and with all transport and equipment and passages over the Jordan river have been seized. This closes the Turk's last avenue of escape. Ten thousand Turks is all that remains of thirty-five thousand men composing the seven Turkish divisions that have been trapped.

This means the virtual annihilation of the Ottoman forces in this region. The British losses were surprisingly slight, considering the mportance of the advance.

(Saturday's dispatches from Palestine announced that 18,000 Turks west of the Jordan river were faced with a prospect of surrender as a result of the British offensive).

British calvary units operating between the Jordan and the Mediterranean in Palestine, have advanced some sixty miles from their original positions and have occupied the Biblcal renowned town of Nazareth and Afule and Beisan.

NODAWAY VALLEY BANK, Maryville, Mo.

BONDS ON PAYMENTS

EACH PURCHASER WILL BE GIVEN "LIBERTY" PASS BOOK

AFTER THE STAMP PLAN

When the Buyer Makes a Payment He Will Be Given Stamp-Payments May Be Made at Banks.

Next Saturday the machinery will be set in motion for the Fourth Liberty Loan. Chairman W. C. Pierce of the county campaign committee, says that the detail for the drive here will be completed by the middle of the week. No announcement of Nodaway county's quota has yet been made.

The partial payment plan adopted for the Fourth Liberty Loan Campaign, is modeled after the Thrift Stamp plan and will be more convenient for small purchasers according to information from Washington.

A "Liberty Pass Book" will be given to each purchaser on first payment of 8 per cent. Subsequent payments will be given 4 per cent. As the purchaser makes each payment he tears a pink slip from the book and turns it in to the bank where he makes the payment. The bank in return gives him a receipt in the form of a stamp, which he pastes in the pass book. When he has paid all installments in this way tht bonds are delivered.

The great convenience in the system Johnstone points out, is that the bond purchaser may make his payments and receive his stamps at any bank—he need not return to the bank from which he made his purchase, or to which the bond salesman credited the purchase.

An example of the new plan would be: A man purchases a $1,000 bond, to be paid for in installments. When he makes the purchase from the salesman he pays $80, or 8 per cent of the purchase price, and contracts to pay $40 in each additional payment. He makes the $40 payment at any bank near which he happens to be, and on filling his pass book receives his bond from any bank at which he turns in the book.

By numbering the books and the stamps the holder will be safeguarded should he lose the book by theft or otherwise, as the stamps will not be convertible, except by identification.

Members of New Organization Will Study Political and Civic Affairs —Hear Address by Ellison.

An organization to be known as the Women's Citizen's Club was formed Saturday afternoon at a meeting held in the women's rest rooms by a number of women from all over the county who have been interested in civic affairs.

Twenty women became active members at this meeting which was presided over by Mrs. W. J. Osburn, temporary chairman, and Mrs. George Bellows, who acted as secretary in the absence of Mrs. Charles Bellows, who had been previously appointed.

George Robb Ellison addressed the meeting, giving the women some valuable suggestions as to plans for work. He referred to the action of both political parties in endorsing the enfranchisement of women and also to the President's endorsement of the federal amendment.

At the close of the meeting, permanent officers were chosen. Those elected were Miss Jessie Parcher, chairman; Miss Hettie M. Anthony, first vice-chairman; Miss Ollie Carpenter, second vice-chairman, and Mrs. S. T. King, secretary-treasurer. The offices of third and fourth vice-chairmen are to be filled at a later meeting.

All meetings to be held are open to visitors. The club plans to carry on some of the lines of work that are interesting similar organizations in all parts of the country. A study of the state constitution relating to taxes and maintenance of schools, also local conditions affected by taxation, laws relating to women and children, war emergency measures, particularly those concerning food, health and fuel conservation and the child welfare movement will be some of the topics for study. Paris, Sept. 23.—The French have reached the Oise river south of St. Quentin, the war office announced today. The fort and village of Vandeuil were recaptured from the Germans by the French, who continue to advance all along the front of attack. The woods north of LaFontaine in the zone south of St. Quentin were penetrated by the French and the drive against St. Quentin bastion from the south is being pressed tenaciously. Enemy raids north of the Vesle river and in the Vosges mountains were repulsed. St. Quentin is now virtually surrounded on three sides, although the British must advance a slight distance north of the stronghold before it is completely a fact.

London, Sept. 23.—Despite the fact the German reinforcements were thrown into the battle, the fighting Serbians have advanced twenty miles in the past two days, bringing their total gain since the opening of the offensive up to fifty miles, it is learned this afternoon. The Serbians alone have captured 10,000 prisoners and 120 big guns, it is estimated unofficially. The Serbians have captured Drachovisko ridge while the cavalry sweeping ahead of the infantry has taken Voseartsi and Kavavadar, cutting the Bulgarian line of communication between Krievolak and Prilep. Fifteen more Serbian villages have been liberated from Bulgarian occupancy.

With the American Army on the Lorraine Front, Sept. 23. — The Germans launched a heavy barrage south of Houilmont this morning apparently to prepare for a raid on the American positions. The American artillery countered with a terrific barrage of its own and the boches kept to their trenches without attacking. The American patrols are active in the vicinity of Sammes, northwest of Thiacourt and Villers and they succeeded in capturing some prisoners. Otherwise this sector is quiet. The weather continues unfavorable for fighting as it is still rainy London, Sept. 26.—Two important lines of railway communication have been cut by the Allies in Southern Servia which may cause widespread withdrawal of the Bulgarian forces on the Balkan front, according to official statement from the Servian war office received here this afternoon. The Serbians have forced a crossing to the Vardar river.

London, Sept. 23.—The B... ers of a mile on the northern end of the Hindenburg line in a new attack east of Gravrelle, British war office announced today. The British captured a German strong point on the Ronsoy-Bony road. The Germans by means of a counter attack attempted to hold up the British advance in front of Guillemont farm but the assault was repulsed with a heavy loss.

FOR CHILD WELFARE

CHILDREN'S CODE COMMISSION WOULD REVISE LAWS

STATE WIDE CAMPAIGN

Mrs. C. C. Hellmers Is Named County Chairman for the Work in Nodaway.—Some Laws to Be Urged.

Mrs. C. C. Hellmers of this city has been appointed county chairman of the Missouri Children's Code Commission, which has been appointed by Governor Frederick D. Gardner to revise and codify the laws relating to children.

Mrs. Hellmers' appointment came through Theodore Hansen, superintendent of the National Public Welfare League, who officially represents the commission in the four months state wide campaign for the passage of the children's code which embraces numerous special rulings relative to child welfare.

The local organizations will be called upon to aid in this movement. G. B. Roseberry county superintendent of the Sunday school association, will have the subject taken up at the coming county convention when a speaker will be sent by the state commission to present the subject. The commercial club, parent-teachers association and county superintendent of schools have also been solicited to help in the work.

The recommendations as issued by the children's code commission to be acted upon at the 1919 session of the Missouri legislature and in which every one in the state should be interested are:

1. Establishing county boards for public welfare.
2. Revision of the child labor and compulsory school attendance law.
3. Providing for the support of children born out of wedlock.
4. State supervision of private agencies caring for children.
5. Raising the age of consent to 16 years.
6. Providing for the extradition of child deserters.
7. Providing punishment for the adults responsible for the delinsuency and neglect of children.
8. Prohibiting commitment of boys under 18 years to the pententary.
9. Probation officers for adults in the criminal courts.
10. Increased facilities for the care of the feeble minded.
11. Establishment of specal classes for defective children in the public schools.
12. Compulsory commitment of dependent feeble mnded persons.
13. State wide free use of school buildings for community purposes.
14. Creating a bureau if child hygiene in the state board of health, and other progressive measures.

GIVE OLD CLOTH

HEED THE RED CROSS CALL F... THE REFUGEES 'OVER THERE'

HUNT 'EM UP THIS WEE

Nodaway County Must Furnish 2,00... Pounds of Cast-Off Garments.—Campaign to end Saturday

A. S. Robey has been appointed chairman for Polk township of the Belgian French Relief drive to be made next week.

Every Red Cross auxiliary in the township has been asked to collect the old clothes and supplies for which a national appeal has been made, and Mr. Robey and his assistants will call and gather all the collection from whatever place the auxiliaries have selected. This will greatly facilitate the work as a large amount of goods are expected to be given.

The need over there is urgent. Women and children are facing a long winter in such a threadbare condition that Herbert Hoover, who knows conditions in Belgium, has made a personal appeal through the Red Cross to the United States to avert a fast approaching crisis.

While only discarded clothing is asked for, persons are asked to remember that the appeal was made to avert misery and death, not merely to bedeck. Party dresses are not desired, especially, but the material in them et... might be made into something ... able with a little work. Shoes, cloak, dresses, underwear, overcoats, men's coats and underwear, socks, stockings, all will serve. Children's garments, too, are badly needed.

Sept. 23 to 30 has been set aside as the official week for French and Belgian refugees and similar collections will be made everywhere in the United States. The campaign of last March aided a great deal, but the horors of winter cannot be faced by ten million inhabitants in the occupied regions of these countries as will they are helped by America and long as the war lasts, France and Belgium must depend chiefly on America for aid.

These garments given need not be perfect condition, for they can be repaired and can be made into new garments adapted to the needs of the women of these countries are familiar. All sorts of men's, women's, boys', girls' and infant's wearables as sheets, pillow cases, bed ticks, bed sheets. Woolen goods of all kinds are very acceptable, also any kind of warm material that can be made into children's garments. Also shoes, even if they are worn, for they can be repaired. No rubbers or shoes are ... ber heels must be ... Eggs, Poultry, No flimsy ... position to rendstuffs, stick articles ... ble, practical ... ed for. ... in Maryville.

A BOX FROM HOME

Drawn by Gaar Williams, Division of Pictorial Publicity.

Food savings of millions of Americans during our first year of war enabled this government to send enormous food shipments abroad for our fighting forces and the Allied nations. Our savings in cereals—out of a short crop—amounted to 154,900,000 bushels; all of which was shipped to Europe. We increased our meat and fat shipments 844,600,000 pounds. This was America's "box from home" to our army abroad and the civilians and military forces of the Allied nations.

OUR SAVED FOOD FED THE ALLIES

Food Administrator Writes President America Conserved 141,000,000 Bushels Wheat.

CREDIT DUE TO WOMEN.

Meat and Fat Shipments Increased by 844,600,000 Pounds.

Conservation measures applied by the American people enabled the United States to ship to the Allied peoples and to our own forces overseas 141,000,000 bushels of wheat and 844,600,000 pounds of meat during the past year, valued in all at $1,400,000,000. This was accomplished in the face of a serious food shortage in this country, bespeaking the wholeheartedness and patriotism with which the American people have met the food crisis abroad.

Food Administrator Hoover, in a letter to President Wilson, explains how the situation was met. The voluntary conservation program fostered by the Food Administration enabled the piling up of the millions of bushels of wheat during 1917-18 and the shipment of meat during 1917-18.

The total value of all food shipments to Allied destinations amounted to $1,400,000,000, all this food being bought through or in collaboration with the Food Administration. These figures are all based on official reports and represent food exports for the harvest year that closed June 30, 1918.

The shipments of meats and fats (including meat products, dairy products, vegetable oils, etc.,) to Allied destinations were as follows:

Fiscal year 1916-17....2,166,500,000 lbs.
Fiscal year 1917-18....3,011,100,000 lbs.
Increase ..... 844,600,000 lbs.

Our slaughterable animals at the beginning of the last fiscal year were not appreciably larger than the year before and particularly in hogs; they were probably less. The increase in shipments is due to conservation and the extra weight of animals added by our farmers.

The full effect of these efforts began to bear their best results in the last half of the fiscal year, when the exports to the Allies were 2,133,100,000 pounds, as against 1,266,500,000 pounds in the same period of the year before. This compares with an average of 801,000,000 pounds of total exports for the same half years in the three-year pre-war period.

In cereals and cereal products reduced to terms of cereal bushels our shipments to Allied destinations have been:

Fiscal year 1916-17..259,900,000 bushels
Fiscal year 1917-18..340,800,000 bushels
Increase ..... 80,900,000 bushels

Of these cereals our shipments of the prime breadstuffs in the fiscal year 1917-18 to Allied destinations were: Wheat 131,000,000 bushels and of rye 13,900,000 bushels, a total of 144,900,000 bushels.

The exports to Allied destinations during the fiscal year 1916-17 were: Wheat 135,100,000 bushels and rye 2,300,000 bushels, a total of 137,400,000 bushels. In addition some 10,000,000 bushels of 1917 wheat are now in port for Allied destinations or en route thereto. The total shipments to Allied countries from our last harvest of wheat will be therefore, about 141,000,000 bushels, or a total of 154,900,000 bushels of prime breadstuffs. In addition to this we have shipped some 10,000,000 bushels to neutrals dependent upon us, and we have received some imports from other quarters.

"This accomplishment of our people in this matter stands out even more clearly if we bear in mind that we had available in the fiscal year 1916-17 from net carry-over and as surplus over our normal consumption about 200,000,000 bushels of wheat which we were able to export that year without trenching on our home loaf," Mr. Hoover said. "This last year, however, owing to the large failure of the 1917 wheat crop, we had available from net carry-over and production and imports only just about our normal consumption. Therefore our wheat shipments to Allied destinations represent approximately savings from our own wheat bread.

"These figures, however, do not fully convey the volume of the effort and sacrifice made during the past year by the whole American people. Despite the magnificent effort of our agricultural population in planting a much increased acreage in 1917, not only was there a very large failure in wheat, but also the corn failed to mature properly, and our corn is our dominant crop.

"I am sure," Mr. Hoover wrote in concluding his report, "that all the millions of our people, agricultural as well as urban, who have contributed to these results should feel a very definite satisfaction that in a year of universal food shortages in the northern hemisphere all of those people joined together against Germany have come through into sight of the coming harvest not only with wealth and strength fully maintained, but with only temporary periods of hardship.

"It is difficult to distinguish between various sections of our people—the homes, public eating places, food trades, urban or agricultural populations—in assessing credit for these results, but no one will deny the dominant part of the American women."

A hoarder is a man who is more interested in getting his bite than in giving his bit.

Notice. The chairmen of the conservation committee of all branches are asked to report to Mr. Will Montgomery, county chairman of the county conservation committee in charge of the collection of cast off clothing and unused articles. This week will be devoted to a nation-wide campaign and with the Nodaway chapter alloted 2,000 pounds, everyone is asked to make an extra effort to send in all that may be spared for the refugees.

More than 1,500,000 meals were served to American, British and French troops at the Red Cross canteens last month.

We are delighted to find all the knitted articles are being estremely well made, says the Southwestern division. There is one correction, however, which must be remembered. No colored stripes are to be placed on the tops of any socks. It has been found that the dyes are not fast and they run badly in washing, so the safest plan is to put no colored bands in any of the socks. Inspection on this must be very carefdl.

The soldier is just as much a soldier when he is resting at arms as when he stands at attention receiving orders. It should be the same with Red Cross workers. When certain quotas are filled, there may be occasionally a lull in the work. But with the call to arms, every Red Cross worker should be ready to spring into place asking no questions, and expecting no favors. It is the spirit of the hour. It is the clarion call to work or fight. The government is showing little mercy with the men slackers and there should be, assuredly, no women slackers needing to be forced into action. Is it necessary to urge every woman to don her uniform and do her bit?

The Liberty Auxiliary met Thursday with an attendance of eleven members and one visitor, Mrs. Barrett of Graham. Fifteen triangular bandages, twenty-three many tailed bandages, twenty-six 5-yard rolls and three refugee shirts were completed. The knitting department under the direction of Mrs. Tunnell reports two sweaters and fourteen pair sox.

Secret of Longevity of Indian Is That He Lives In Open, Eats Plain Food

Chief Manitoweg (White Wings), an Indian evangelist of the Siwash tribe, who has been preaching in churches in Harlem and in New Jersey, told his auditors of the good health and longevity of the Indian.

"The Indian," he said, "who lives in his native state on the reservation attains an age that few members of the white race would believe possible. I am aware that my race is rapidly becoming extinct, but this is because so many Indians have followed the mode of life of the paleface and the softening influences of civilization. I have a sister who is more than one hundred years old, and I know Indians today on the reservations who are more than one hundred, and whose births are a matter of record. I am sixty-nine myself, but my years trouble me not at all. I once knew an Indian woman who lived to be one hundred and twenty-eight years old.

"I am often asked what is the secret of the longevity of these Indians. The answer is simple, so long as an Indian will live in the open, drink pure water only and eat plain food. Many such Indians are at their best physically at the age of fifty. The Indian at fifty still has his hair, his teeth and his eyesight, and can run ten miles before breakfast without an effort. I was preaching recently at a church in Newark, N. J., and after the service a man of thirty-four came to me and asked why it was that so many Indians had thick hair and were not afflicted with baldness. He remarked that he had never seen a baldheaded Indian. This man himself was as bald as a billiard ball.

"'I will tell you, my friend,' I told him, 'it is the truth, although you will probably not believe me. When the Indian goes to bed he at once goes to sleep; it is different with the white man, who takes his troubles to bed with him, and always has something on his mind.'"

Husband—You have changed washerwomen, I see.

Wife—Yes. How do you know?

Husband—Instead of getting Brown's and Robinson's shirts, I am getting some strange garments I never wore before.

A Vital Question.

She— Yes, I attended cooking school and I learned so much there.

He—Did you learn how to keep a cook?

Not Customary.

Alice—How did you feel while Fred was proposing to you?

Mildred — Two or three times I felt like supplying the words I knew he was groping for; but, of course, that wouldn't have been the thing to do at all.

Tact.

She—When you go to ask papa the first thing he will do will be to accuse you of seeking my hand merely to become his son-in-law.

He—Yes. And then—?"

She—And then you must agree with him. He's a lot prouder of himself than he is of me.

Utilize Part of the Poultry Increase to Supply Meat for the Home Table

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

As a matter of business foresight and economy, as well as of patriotism, farmers who increase their production of poultry and eggs this year should plan to use a considerable part of the increase on their own tables. Much of the benefit of increasing the supply of products capable of very rapid increase, but perishable and bulky, will be lost if producers adopt the policy of marketing all the increase. In that case there would be no substitution on the farm of poultry products for the cured and compact meats which it is desired to reserve as far as possible for military use and shipment to the allies.

Many farm families could easily use several times as much poultry as is now consumed on the average farm Analysis of the figures of the last census shows a very light consumption of poultry and eggs on the average farm. For the whole country the average yearly consumption of eggs per farm is only 137.5 dozen—2.6 dozen per week; of poultry, 60 head—or one bird every six days. The highest average consumption of eggs in any state is 211.2 dozen—four dozen a week. The highest average consumption of poultry in a state is 124.6 head—one bird in 2.9 days. Such averages indicate that farmers who use poultry and eggs freely on their own tables use from six to ten dozen eggs and four to six head of poultry weekly. In view of the extent to which large flocks can be made self-sustaining during the greater part of the year on most farms, this liberal scale of consumption of poultry products would seem practical generally.

The consumption of eggs on farms may be greatly increased and farmers still receive the benefit of good prices for fresh eggs in the season of scant production and give consumers the benefit of a larger supply and more moderate prices, if all farmers who can do so will preserve as many eggs when eggs are cheap as they can use at home when eggs are dear. The average farm price of eggs in the United States in April, May and June, 1917, was 29 cents a dozen; in October, November and December, 38.7 cents. In 1916 the average difference in farm prices in the periods compared was 12.3 cents a dozen. There is a period of from five to six months in every year when the average price of fresh eggs on the farm is about ten cents a dozen more than the average price during the season of heavy production. Inasmuch as eggs can be preserved in water glass, or in lime water, and kept in perfect condition for from six to nine months, and usable for a year or more, a farmer who preserves eggs when they are cheap for his own use can use eggs freely the year round and still have eggs to sell all through the season of high prices.

LINGERIE TO BE ADORNED

"Frillery" Must Be Ornamented With Hand Painting, Is a Coming Edict of Fashion.

Well, girls, you will soon be wearing your own art gallery. Painted lingerie is coming, and who knows but what you will have a birdseye view of the Steel city, with its mills in full blast, running around the bottom of your skirt? For it is said that lingerie that once screamed will make its painted approach much more noiselessly and without ostentation, but with force. Oil paintings done to suit individual taste on the lingerie are among the fall announcements. Each place is to follow a master design, and sets will have their day in court. Thus, a mosquito-net dress will put a spider web stocking most eminently in the shade, if not entirely out of business, and a whole flock of vistas opens up before those of us who have eyes with limitless possibilities as to scenic effects, with startling backgrounds and atmospheric tonalities. "Washington Crossing the Delaware," "Joan of Arc Listening to the Voices," "The Battle of Waterloo" and examples of the shot-to-pieces school may all be harnessed to the new fad. The artistic temperament may now take on a new lease of life, in spite of the agitation in favor of a tax on art ranging up to 25 per cent. It may mount upon eagle's wings. It may run without weariness. It may—but what's the use? The new fad is a positive boon to struggling artists from Maine to California, whose productions have, since the war, had to confront not only a sluggish, but a positively dead market. Let us all rise in our places and give three rousing cheers for the application of painting to lingerie.—New York Times.

LINKS ITALY AND AMERICA

Newly Installed Wireless Telegraphy Plant Is the Most Powerful That Has Yet Been Built.

The announcement that Italy and the United States have recently been connected by wireless telegraphy deserves more notice than it has received. This achievement probably makes a back number of the great wireless station at Nauen, near Berlin, which has been so useful to Germany and which, when the war broke out, claimed to be the most powerful in the world, with an effective range of between 5,000 and 6,000 miles. From the nearest point in Italy to the United States transatlantic station at Arlington, near Washington, is not less than 6,200 miles, and to send an intelligible message across that distance might be more than even Nauen could accomplish. Owing to the hostility between the ether waves which carry wireless messages and sunshine, it is always easier to send messages long distances in northerly latitudes than in those more South, and the power required to cover a given distance increases with nearness to the equator. The wireless route between Rome and Arlington is for a good part of the way at least 800 miles nearer the equator than that between Nauen and the United States, which fact considerably adds to the achievement of the Italian and American experts.—London Chronicle.

Women as Aviators.

"Out of a thousand women who want to fly," says C. G. Gray, London aviation expert, "you might find one who has the right kind of nerve for flying. A great many women learned to fly before the war, but I never came across more than one who could really fly. She was a very exceptional woman altogether. In the United States Ruth Law was the first woman to fly from Chicago to New York. She came of an acrobatic family. Katherine Stinson, another American girl, nearly completed the same feat recently. But for one woman of this type you have thousands hysterically anxious to fly, and they would only break their necks as well as government property and be a general nuisance."

Demand for Canned Milk of Goats.

California has a large ranch stocked with Swiss and Nubian goats, the milk from which is condensed and canned. Goats' milk is said to be very rich, and is in demand as nourishing food for invalids. A well-bred milch goat will produce 12 times its weight in milk. A cow produces yearly three times her weight if she is a good milker, but the goat cannot be depended upon for a steady supply of milk at all times through the year. Therefore it is said that canning is the best method of making a goat dairy profitable. An 11-ounce can of condensed goat milk retails at 20 cents in the West, and the sale has thus far been confined chiefly to drug stores.—Pacific Daily Review.

The Cost of Life.

"To live is always to be hurt in some way," said a young voice recently. It was the half-resentful, half-wondering voice of one still new to the experiences of existence, and questioning their justice.

The statement is true, and the more fully alive one is, the more keenly are the hurts felt. Every joy brings with it its possible price of suffering. Every love opens a door to sorrow, every gift brings its weight of responsibility; wider knowledge brings the larger drain upon sympathy. The higher one rises in the scale of being, the greater becomes not only the capacity for joy, but also the twin capacity for suffering, but who would choose to be a clod to avoid feeling, a block of marble to escape the pain of a living soul?

Rheumatism Back on the Job With its Old-time Fury

No Let-Up In Its Torture.

Pretty soon you will be reaching for the liniment bottle again, for the millions of little pain demons that cause Rheumatism are on the warpath. Winter weather seems to awaken them to renewed fury.

But your Rheumatism cannot be rubbed away, because liniments and lotions cannot reach the disease. It is in the blood, and only a remedy that goes deep down into the circulation, and routs out the disease germs, can rid you of this disabling disease.

S. S. S. has given some wonderful results in treating Rheumatism. Being a purely vegetable blood remedy, it purifies the blood of every germ, and thus removes the cause of Rheumatism. Get a bottle to-day at your drugstore, and start on the right treatment that will get results. POULTRY KEEPING IN BACK YARDS

Poultry keeping, although a comparatively simple undertaking, will be successful in direct proportion to the study and labor which are expended upon it. There is an abundance of good material on the subject, but Backyard Poultry Keeping (Farmers' Bulletin 889), a publication of the United States department of agriculture, contains all the general directions needed to make a start. It tells how to overcome the objections to keeping poultry in the city, what kinds of fowls to keep, the size of the flock computed according to the size of the back yard, gives definite instructions as to the best kinds of chicken houses to build, with bill of materials for same, directions as to feeding the fowls, hatching and raising chicks, prevention of diseases and many other matters essential to the success of the undertaking. Another helpful bulletin of a general character is Hints to Poultry Raisers (Farmers' Bulletin 528). This gives a great deal of useful and authoritative information within a very small compass.

47,500,000 Acres of Wheat Should Be Sown This Fall For 1919 Liberty Harvest

A great liberty wheat harvest in 1919 is asked of American farmers in a national growing program issued by Secretary Houston after full consideration of the increasing needs for this essential food at home and in the allied nations.

Not less than 45,000,000 acres of winter wheat is called for in this fall's sowing and Secretary Houston suggests that approximately 47,500,000 acres could be sown if conditions are especially favorable. The larger acreage, it was pointed out, would better meet the estimated needs of the allied nations and the population at home.

From the minimum acreage called for, which is only about the average of the five years 1913-17, it is estimated 636,000,000 bushels of winter wheat might be expected; from the suggested larger acreage, approximately 667,000,000 bushels should be harvested. These production estimates are based upon an average yield of 15.7 bushels an acre and an abandonment of 10 per cent in the area sown on account of winter kill.

To be able to have things we want, that is riches; to be able to do without, that is power.—George McDonald.

Food for the Family.

Skim milk may be used in countless dishes where whole milk was formerly considered indispensable.

Milk Soups.

Take one quart of skim milk, one-fourth of a cupful of meat fat or oleomargarine, one-fourth of a cupful of flour, two teaspoonfuls of salt. Melt the fat and stir it into the flour; when well mixed add the cold milk and cook until the flour is well cooked, stirring constantly. This thickened milk may be used as a foundation for any cream soup. Add two cupfuls of corn, peas, beans, or potato pulp. In using tomato, add a fourth of a teaspoonful of soda. One-half cupful of grated cheese or the same amount of peanut butter will make cheese or peanut soup.

Peanut Loaf.

Take one cupful of toasted bread crumbs, three-fourths of a cupful of peanut butter, one-half of a cupful of rice, one teaspoonful of salt, a speck of pepper, and a teaspoonful of poultry dressing, with a tablespoonful of chopped parsley. Combine, make in a loaf and bake thirty minutes; unmold and serve with tomato catsup.

Nut and Cheese Loaf.

Nuts like legumes are rich in fat and protein. To aid in digestion they should be ground or chopped. Take one cupful of grated cheese, one cupful of walnut meats or hickory nut meats, one cupful of bread crumbs, two tablespoonfuls of water, one teaspoonful of salt, two tablespoonfuls of onion and a few dashes of pepper. Cook the onion in a tablespoonful of oil and water until tender, add the other ingredients and bake in a loaf until brown. Garnish with lemon points.

Nut Muffins.

Take one and a half cupfuls of whole wheat flour, one-half teaspoonful of soda, the same of salt, a half cupful each of molasses and sour milk, one egg and a half cupful of nuts. Mix the dry ingredients, and the ground nuts, add other ingredients, stirring enough to mix and put into greased muffin pans. Bake thirty minutes in a moderate oven.

Nut, Cheese, Date Salad.

Stuff eighteen dates with seasoned cream cheese. Roll in chopped nuts. Arrange three on a salad plate with a pile of mayonnaise in the center.

The Diary of a Sugar Hog

July 1—This is the day when sugar rationing begins. The Food Administration has announced everyone must go on strict rations on account of a shortage. That doesn't affect me any; I'm prepared for it. I was wise and bought a supply a couple of weeks ago, as I saw this shortage coming. Limiting us to two-pound purchases doesn't deter me from having plenty. I went to six stores and bought two pounds at each place. I thought that was rather clever. This business of asking us to limit ourselves to three pounds a month is all nonsense; I can't be bothered. When we are put on sugar cards will be time enough to worry about how much we are eating.

The Germans are still going strong, the papers say. I wish there was something I could do to help.

July 4—Independence Day. I shall show my independence by having Ellen make a good old apple pie. The Food Administration is still harping on the necessity of saving sugar. I don't see why. There is plenty of sugar to be had; I know that. Food officials tell us there is no danger of a famine if we limit ourselves to three pounds a month. I'll let the other fellows do that. I've got plenty, so what's the use in my depriving myself. I've got to have lots of sugar; my system craves it.

The war situation looks a little brighter. We'll win yet, but it is going to mean a lot of sacrifices. I'm glad I'm too old to fight. I wish I could help in some other way here at home.

July 10—I bought 25 pounds of sugar today by signing a certificate I would use it for canning and preserving. I've got it put away in the basement. There is danger of a real famine, I believe, so it is best to be prepared. I'm going to grab all I can. These rules and regulations are only for those who will follow them. There is nothing compulsory about them.

Submarines are busy again. This war is a terrible thing.

July 15—Ellen wants to put up some fruit with that 25 pounds of sugar I bought; says I bought it for that purpose and it must be used for that. She is strong for living up to the rules; that's just like a woman. She says if we have more than our share someone else will suffer. I should worry about that; I've got mine. I've quit buying candy for the children; that is sufficient sacrifice for one family.

I see the Belgians have only one pound of sugar a month. That is a terrible condition. I don't see why something isn't done to give them more. War is even worse than I had imagined.

July 25—Now we are being asked to limit our sugar consumption to two pounds a month, beginning Aug. 1. That can't be done. I wonder what is the matter with the Food Administration, anyway, that it can't keep us supplied with sugar. I told Ellen not to put any more sugar on the children's cereal. We've got to make more sacrifices, I guess, in these times.

I hope the Kaiser is whipped soon. I'd do anything to help win this war.

July 30—I was in a restaurant today and asked for sugar for my ice tea. It's a bore to have to ask for sugar, but the Food Administration has put a ban on sugar bowls. The waitress would let me have only two teaspoons. As that wasn't enough, I took a little bag out of my pocket and put in two more. A man sitting at the same table looked at me and said:

"You're a fine patriot, you are."

"What's the matter with you?" I asked.

"Do you think carrying your own sugar around with you to add to your allowance here is going to help matters any?"

"It is none of your business," I replied. "There is plenty of sugar; if the Food Administration knew what it was doing there would be no sugar shortage. This is a free country, anyhow."

"Don't blame it on the Food Administration; blame it on the German submarines; they're responsible. And you and other sugar hogs are doing more damage than the submarines by eating all you want."

Another man had sat down at the table and heard part of our conversation. He was rather a belligerent looking person.

"So you think you can use all the sugar you want, do you? You won't deny yourself a little while my two sons are facing death on the front in France to protect you and other blooming slackers." And he called a waitress, had her take out the tea I had sweetened and ordered her to bring me some without any sugar.

I protested.

"Shut up," he thundered. "I am going to teach you right now to do without sugar."

Not wishing to cause a scene, I left the restaurant. I believe I heard some people hiss at me as I went out. War seems to have changed conditions considerably.

Aug. 5—A man came to my house today and asked me how much sugar I had. I told him three pounds for household use. He had records showing I had bought sugar at several stores and had 25 pounds for preserving purposes which had not been used. He asked me if I knew the penalty for hoarding food. I told him I did not and did not care to know. He left. No one can meddle in my affairs.

Aug. 7—The Food Administrator for this county was in to see me today. He asked me if I would give up the excess sugar I have on hand. I told him I most certainly would not; that the sugar I had bought was mine and I intended to keep it. I'd like to see the government take it away from me.

Aug. 13—I gave $300 to the Red Cross today. And I have let all my sugar go. That $300 was given in lieu of prosecution of a charge against me of hoarding sugar. I seem to have lost most of my friends since it became known that I had more sugar than was coming to me. No one speaks to me any more. Business is very bad. My store is deserted. The women seem to prefer to buy dry goods elsewhere now. I have been asked to resign from my lodge. They say they want no slackers and sugar hogs with them. Ellen is heart-broken; her friends are treating her so coldly.

(Here the diary ends abruptly. The writer left town suddenly for an extended vacation because of poor health. This diary was found among his effects.)

STOP THE GRUMBLING.

Some dissatisfaction has been caused by the recent regulations concerning the consumption of of sugar. The discontented should remember that the Food Administration is not to blame; they should direct their criticism at the German junkers and not at the Food Administration. The shortage of sugar has been caused by the U-boats. There is sufficient sugar in the world, but the lack of shipping and the sinking of sugar cargoes has caused all the trouble.

It is a small sacrifice that has been asked of the people, and there is no doubt it will be complied with, although there will be some grumbling. But let the grumbler think of the men at the front who are giving all for their country, who are enduring cheerfully great hardships and extreme danger, and then look at himself in the mirror when he complains of being deprived of the second teaspoonful of sugar. One look should be enough.

MISSOURI DIVISION, U. S. FOOD ADMINISTRATION.

How You Can Help
What to Save & What to Use

SAVE SUGAR. Two pounds per month is the American honor-ration. Try to eat less and add to the national surplus for canning. Do this that the fighting forces may be kept fully supplied, and that England, France and Italy may receive their greatly restricted requirements.

SAVE BEEF. Food for fighting men. Save the large carcasses for them by restricting yourself to small cuts, by-products and trimmings: hearts, tongues, livers. We have enough increase supply of pork this summer to permit economical expansion in its use to relieve the pressure of beef.

SAVE WHEAT. Keep on saving, though the harvest is large. Build up war reserves by persistent conservation. Without American wheat saved from the last harvest the Allied cause would have been lost. The margin next year must not be so narrow.

USE FRUITS. Take advantage of the natural sugar in fruits. Can without sugar, or with little sugar. Add sugar later, when it will be more plentiful. Dried fruits, such as raisins, dates and figs have much sugar in them. Use honey, maple products and syrups when available.

USE VEGETABLES. Make local vegetables fill as large a place as possible in your diet, thus conserving not only meat and wheat, but transportation and labor. Don't use canned goods now, while the fresh are available.

USE DAIRY PRODUCTS. Always give the children plenty of milk, milk products and eggs. Use them yourselves freely now, and thus conserve meat for export.

USE FISH. New species are being popularized and supplies increased. Eat this nutritious but perishable food several times a week and let the nonperishable shables go abroad.

WASTE NOTHING.

Three times each day every American has opportunity to be of direct, practical help to the men on the battle front.

Our efforts during the fiscal year 1917-18 sent the Allies 18,844,600,000 pounds more meat and fats and 80,900,000 bushels more cereals than during 1916-17. From American sources of supply also 1,965,400,000 pounds more sugar was shipped than the pre-war annual average.
